Let's Start!

I love the way you decorated this room!

Learning Outcome

Ask your partner:

- Do you like decorating rooms? Why or why not?
- What's your favorite room in your house? Why?

Vanessa: I love the way you've decorated this room. It's so chic!
Sally: Thanks. There's a few things I need to do. I might get an interior designer to come and help.
Vanessa: Is that artwork from your travels?
Sally: Yeah, I bought those batiks in Turkey. The statues are from Greece.
Peter: The drapes are really cool.
Vanessa: Yeah, they match the throw pillows ... and the lampshades!
Sally: Yeah, I got those in Jordan. I may put those in the den.
Vanessa: If you put them in the den, I won't be able to see them when I come to visit. They're so gorgeous!
Peter: What will you do with that empty wall over there?
Sally: I'll leave it blank for now. I'll ask the interior designer about that.

Learning Points

Modals May, Might, Will

You use the modals may and might to show possibility. They have the same meaning. You use the modal will to predict the future in a more certain way.

Modals go before a verb in the base form. The verb does not change.

Examples:

- I'll leave that wall blank for now. I'll ask the interior designer what she thinks.
- I might buy some artwork to add some color to that room.
- I may hang up my pictures next week.

The First Conditional

You use the First Conditional to talk about real possibilities in the future.

You use the First Conditional to say it's possible that you will do something. In that condition, something else will happen.

If clause	Main Clause
If you put them in the den,	I won't be able to see them.
If I ask the teacher to help me,	I will pass the test.
If he gets his dream job,	he will be very happy.

Examples:

- If you add some color to that one wall, it may brighten up the entire room.
